Investment strategy: SPP Emerging Markets Plus is a non-fossil fuel, index tracking equity fund that invests in a broad range of different industries in emerging markets. The Fund focuses on companies with high sustainability and may also invest up to 10% of the Fund's assets in companies that concentrate on sustainable solutions, such as companies active within the field of renewable energy. The fund optimizes the selection of companies that rank highly in sustainability based on the Group's model for sustainability rating, which is based on two factors from an ESG perspective. One is a risk assessment that focuses on the companies operational ESG risks, and one self-developed opportunity rating that aims to identify them individual companies financially relevant risks and opportunities in relation to the UN Global Sustainability Goals.

Risk and Reward Profile

The Risk and Reward Indicator shows the relationship between risk and return for the Fund. A higher position on the scale means the possibility of higher returns, but a greater risk of losing money. The indicator is based on how the Fund's value has changed over the course of the past five years.

This Fund is part of category 6, which means a high risk of upward and downward fluctuation in the unit value. Category 1 does not constitute a risk-free investment. Over time, the fund can move both left and right on the scale over time. As the fund has existed for less than 5 years, the indicator has been estimated. Historical data is not a guarantee of future risk/return.

Generally speaking, equity funds are characterised by significant fluctuations in prices. The Fund is exposed to emerging markets. Normally, this means that the risk is higher than for a fund that invests in more mature stock markets. Investments in emerging markets are covered by economic and political instability, significant exchange rate fluctuations or low liquidity in local markets.

The indicator mainly reflects the upward and downward fluctuations in the shares that the Fund has invested in. The following risks may not be fully reflected in the indicator but may affect the value of the Fund:

Liquidity risk: This occurs when a part of the Fund's assets is difficult to sell at a specified time or at a reasonable price.

Currency risk: If the Fund invests in securities in foreign currency, the value in Swedish kronor is affected when the exchange rate changes. If a foreign currency weakens against the Swedish krona, the value of holdings purchased in that currency in the Fund decreases.

Operational risk: Risk of loss due to things such as system failure, human error or external events.
